OUR JOURNEY

We design environments and stylish products with passion and dedication, all over the world. Our studio is the brainchild of architect Marco Allievi, drawing on his 30 years' experience in international markets.

Based in Mendrisio, Switzerland, the studio develops and implements customised projects offering the very best in Italian taste and quality, bringing to the table professionalism and technical skills derived from years of experience in planning and building unique environments.

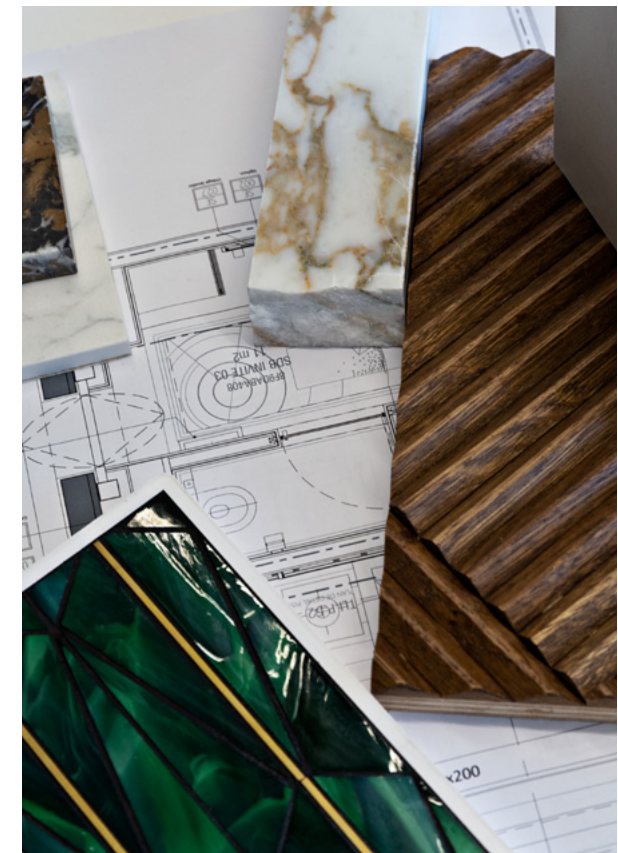

Villas, hotels, shops, yachts, offices and special bespoke projects operating at international level and radiating Italian style and quality, the result of teamwork and step-by-step coordination to create environments that transcend external beauty and functionality, perfectly reflecting the emotions of those who experience them.

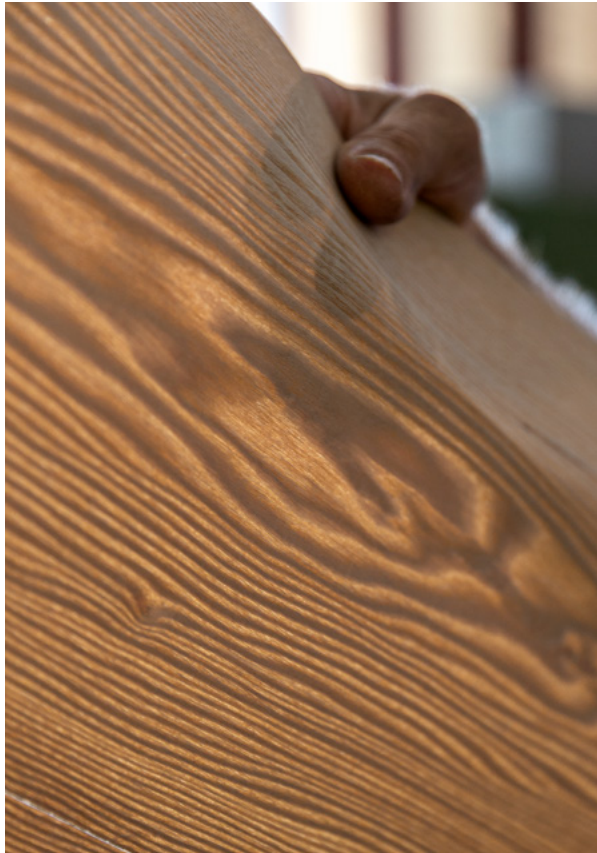

Our projects include hotels, resorts, shops, private homes and offices owned by a sophisticated clientele who want to stand out from the crowd by giving free rein to creativity and imagination. Our goal is to meet the expectations and desire for projects that are customised in every aspect, from development and design to the choice of materials and furnishing components.

THE INDELUX METHOD

The Indelux method is a way of thinking and working as a team, consolidated by the diverse professional experience that our team members have accumulated over the years. A focus on people, attention to detail, creativity, the importance of materials, and the search for objective beauty.

It is an ethical code that manifests itself in the way we manage each step in the implementation of a turnkey project, starting from a technical and economic analysis of the concept, and ending with the actual construction and interior design works. Analysing spaces and needs and considering how to restore style and ambiance to an environment are the first stage in the process, throughout which Indelux provides close support to the client, architect or designer. Once the solution has been mapped out, the project cornerstones are established, defining the furnishings, drawings and technical models and the sampling of materials, taking advantage of a vast array of high-end finishes.

The work is then entrusted to the hands of skilled craftsmen and overseen by operational teams consisting of highly qualified personnel. The environments — from hospitality settings to interior designs for private homes — all have the same thing in common: very high quality standards in terms of design, choice of materials and furnishing components. Last but not least, Indelux is responsible for all aspects of shipping and logistics, managing administrative documentation and shipping formalities worldwide.

The studio's successful foundations have allowed it to carry out ambitious projects all over the world, which are guided by achievable objectives and a consistently design-oriented vision.

Decorating each environment with a personal touch, keeping constantly abreast of industry trends and innovations, working in harmony with different partners and fully respecting our customers' choices and wishes to create custom projects: this operating approach guarantees an exclusive and first-rate turnkey service, enabling Indelux to become a top-level player in the contract and interiors sectors.

A TURNKEY PROCESS

From conception to construction, Indelux is responsible for all stages of the project.

Understand

The pencil is the first design tool, which allows us to understand, even before we start drawing.

- Project analysis
- Technical feasibility study

Design

We conceptually anticipate how the finished project will look, starting with a theoretical study followed by research, analysis and observation of the actual site conditions.

- Working drawings
- Rendering
- Mockup and modelling

Research

A fusion of aesthetics and functionality, the result of years of experience and experimentation.

- Selection of materials
- Sampling
- Definition of furnishings

Implement

The project takes shape, developing and evolving into the consummate end product.

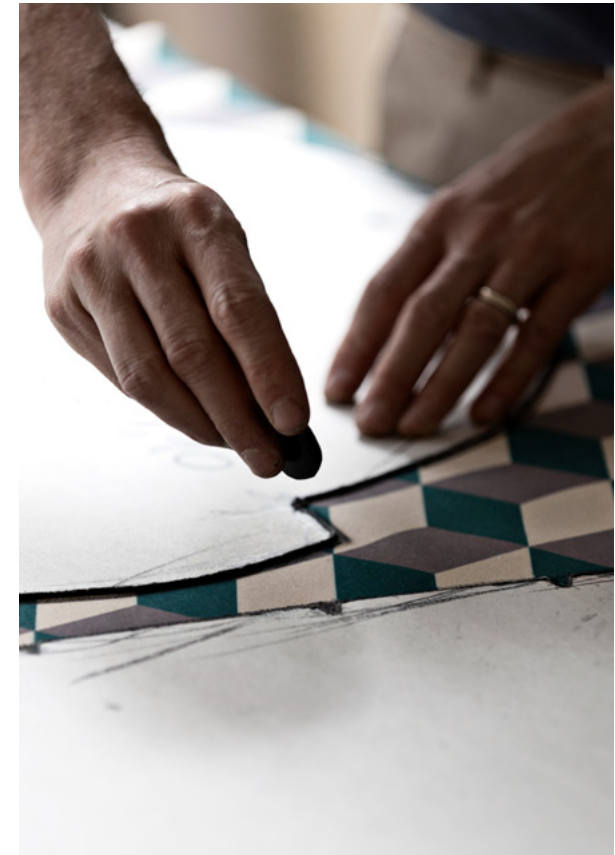

- Shipping and logistics
- Implementation
- Delivery

QUALITY, MATERIALS, CUSTOMIZATION

Our eye for detail, passion for beauty and meticulous attention to proportions in managing spaces, both indoor and outdoor, have always been strengths that push us to seek out the very best solutions when implementing our projects.

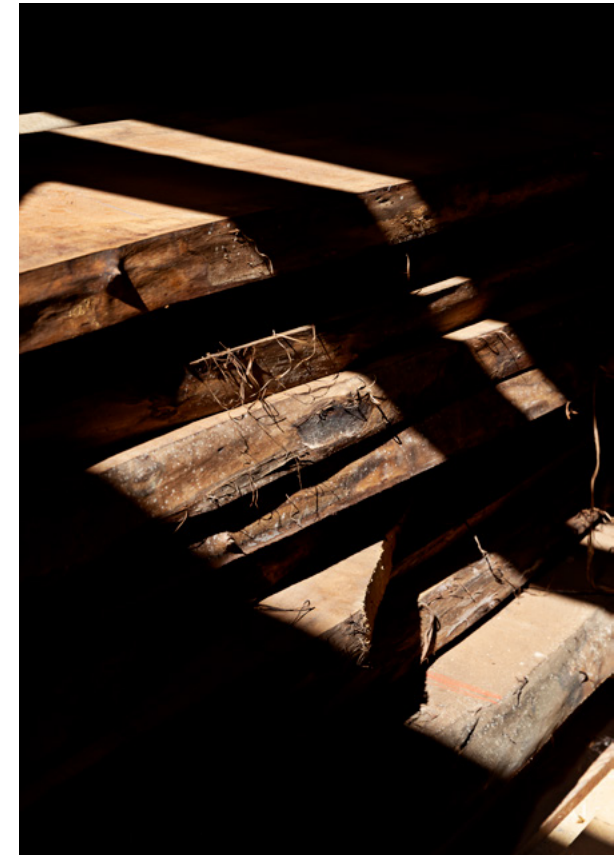

Our ability and potential to customise environments stems from our genuine passion for researching and selecting materials. From precious metals to stones, from leathers to fabrics and top-quality textiles: Indelux has an infinite range of solutions, a set of aesthetic and technical finishes that makes each individual project stand out.
